Abstract

This study wanted to determine the level of awareness among students of General Emilio Aguinaldo National High School in the City of Imus, Cavite towards construction of a proposed local history module on: Local Heroes of Imus. The descriptive study involving 125 randomly selected students handled by Araling Panlipunan teachers. A survey questionnaire was used to determine the level of awareness of students in terms of their knowledge on local history and data were treated using weighted mean. The findings of the study revealed that the overall weighted mean obtained in the study described the level of awareness on local history among the students as “slightly aware”. Due to the positive feedback, it was recommended that the use of local history modules should be rolled out to all students. The local history modules developed by the Araling Panlipunan Department of General Emilio Aguinaldo National High School must be presented to the Schools Division Office for review and evaluation; and Proposal should be made to have it rolled out in the whole Division of Imus City so that many students will also benefit from it.
